

Lions sponsor All-Star Classic at FSU

FOR THE FROSTBURG EXPRESS

FROSTBURG — The Frostburg Lions Club recently sponsored the 2007 West Virginia vs. Maryland All-Star Classic that was held at the Frostburg State University field house.

The classic allows high school seniors, boys and girls, to demonstrate their skill for the last time, locally, in a charity game. The classic has been held for 27 years, thanks to the tournament organizer, Jim Newlon.

The program permits the Frostburg Lions to financially support a number of local youth activities, eye vision programs, scholarships and local community events. The Lions will hold a chicken barbecue on June 30 at the Frostburg pool. Serving will begin at noon and continue until all chicken is sold.

The Lions meet the second and fourth Wednesdays of the month at the Acropolis Restaurant at 6:30 p.m. Anyone interested is invited to attend.

Among those who participated in the recent West Virginia vs. Maryland All-Star Classic at Frostburg State University were, from the left, Jason Smouse, West Virginia coach; West Virginia most valuable players Jordan Lawson and Tyrell Clay; Jim Newlon, program founder; Maryland most valuable players Zach Blank, Steven Isar and Tanner Nelson, Bob Nelson, Maryland coach, and Elmer Smith, program coordinator. The annual event is sponsored by the Frostburg Lions club.
