

Lions-UNICEF School-in-a-Box Fact Sheet

Education is playing an increasing role in emergency response. Schools provide children with protection, stability and a return to normalcy...UNICEF

The School-in-a-Box Kit has been used by UNICEF since the mid 1990's. Education experts from UNICEF and the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) originally developed the kit to provide basic education to hundreds of thousands of children who had been displaced by the events in Rwanda in 1994 and were living in refugee camps. The purpose of the kit is to ensure the continuation of children's education in the first 72 hours of an emergency. With this kit, teachers can establish makeshift classrooms almost anywhere.

Contents of School-in-a-Box: The box can be used almost anywhere in the world and contains school supplies and materials for a teacher and up to 40 students. The contents are culturally neutral. Other locally purchased products, such as books in local languages, toys, games and musical instruments, are supplemental. All materials are packed in a lockable, stackable, sturdy metal storage box.

In 1996, Lions Clubs International signed a Memorandum of Understanding with UNICEF to support the School-in-a-Box program. Funds are supplied to UNICEF's central supply division in Copenhagen, where most of the boxes are assembled and then forwarded to countries experiencing emergency situations. In some circumstances, boxes are produced locally. The "School-in-a-Box" Fund is a global fund and gifts cannot be designated to a specific country.
